Iraqi security men close South Yemeni embassy

(Agencies)--Plainelothes security men, their faces hidden by dark losses and swathed in white keffiyehs, scaled off the South Yemeni embassy in Bughdad today, turning away visitors, saying the embassy was on holiday. The move was the Baghdad government's swift retaliation for South Yemen's action in laving siege to the Iraqi embassy in Aden after the murder of an Iraqi professor there lust Suturday.

Iraq has rejected South Yemeni allegations that members uf its Aden embassy staff were responsible for the shooting of Professor Toufiq Rushdi. Officials here expressed sur-rise at the sharpness of the South Yemeni reaction to the Rushdi killing. Until now Buathist (Arab Socialist) Iraq and Marxist South Yemen have generally been on Iraqi officials told Reuters

The new regional council now encumpasses the territory from near Beisan to the Jerusalem-Jericheeroad.

PLO ready for U.S. dialogue, says Kaddoumi

KUWAIT. June 5 | R |-- The foreign affairs director of the Palestine Liberation Cirganisation (PLO). Mr. Farouk Kaddoumi, was quoted today as saying the PLO is ready to conduct a dialogue with the U.S. provided Washington recignises it as the sole and legitimate representative of the Palestinian people.

In an interview with the Kuwaiti daily Al Rai Al Aam, Mr. Kaddoumi added that any talks between the PLO and the U.S. should also be public and at the highest fevel.

The U.S. should also recognise the national rights of the Palestinian people, Mr. Kaddoumi told Al Rai Al Aam.

Mr. Kaddoumi reiterated the PLO's rejection of the proposed Palestinian autonomy on the West Bank of Jurdan and Gaza Strip and denounced the peace treaty between Egypt and Israel as a surrender pact.

He said the Palestinian people would take decisive and firm action against anyone who supported the autumomy plans.

On Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiri's recent-call for an Arab summit in Mecea to restore Arab solidaoty, Mr. Kaddoumi said the suggestion should not have come from President Numeiri, because he wants the Arab League

Reports of the attack came at a time of border tension between tran and Iraq in the southern tranian province of Khozestan, where autonomyseeking Arabs tast week etashed with tocal Persian militla. Both sides denied reports that they had concentrated troops on the border, but reporters were prevented from reaching the frontier in Khuzestan to make an independent eheck.

The Kurdish border has loog been a problem area for both Baghdad and Tehran and relations between the two countries were only normalised in 1975 after the Shab agreed to drop his support for Kurdish separatists on the tragi side of the border.

The tense situation in Khuzestan last week gave rise to a spate of anti-fraqi propaganda posters attacking Baghdad's Baath party leadership. The official "Voice of the Islamic Revolution" radio claimed that Iraqi helicopters had crossed the border in Khuzestan on reconnaissance flights and had moved troops up to the border but this was

Hussein visits Annaba, pays respect to Algerian martyrs

ALGIERS, June 5 (Agencies) - His Majesty King Hussein today risited industrial sites around the eastern port of Annaba, near the Tunisian border, on the second day of his state visit to Algeria. Before he flew to the part, the king placed a wreaths on the lomb of the late Algerian President Houari Boumedienne, who died last December, and visited the tombs of Algerian martyrs.

King Husseio has already had talks with President Chadli Ben Jedid in "the main issues of interest to the Arab nation," the official Algerian News Agency said. When he left Amman the Jordan News Agency said the two leaders were expected to discuss means of achieving common Arab action to face the current Middle East situation.

The king, on a three-day visit to Algeria, yesterday held a first current Arab affairs in the light of the latest Middle East developments and discussed requirements for joint Arab action and means of strengthening Arab solidarity to face the future The two leaders are scheduled to hold another round of official talks to an interview with Algerian Television yesterday, His Majesty expressed happiness to visit Algeria and said it was an opportunity for bim to convey to the Algerian people the greetings of the Jordanian people who, he said, share with the Algerians the same aspirations and who are determined to strengthen relations with Algeria in all fields.

ARAB PRESS COMMENTARY

AL RATISAYS in its aditorial Tuesday that His Majesty King Hussein's visit to Algeria assumes a special significance as it comes at a time when the Arar's are initiating a new move to return the Middle Fast problem to the U.S. with a view to achieving a comprehensive settlement which will guarantee the participation of all the parties concerned.

King (168) 168 meeting with the Algerian president, which comes on the ele of his prospective meeting with the French president, assumes special significance because it precedes the convocation of the Security Council session called by Jordan to discuss the report of the U.S. fact-finding mission on illegal Israeli. practices in the occupied it truotees, the paper says,

The paper hopescharting King's tisms will prove "fruitful" and that the rest of the Arab leaders will poin in efforts to achieve a just and comprehens a peace in the area.

Commenting on the Exclide a niversary of the June 1907 war between the Arabs and Israel, ALIM STOUR urges the Arabs to hulld up their strength so that they may be able to "solve the problems brought on by the setSack."

The paper afforms that the eyacof Egypt from the Arab nation need not discourage the Arabs, and say that the Arabs have the material and human potentials to repell and liquidate the Zionist attack as they did with the Tartai and Crusader offensives.

The paper urges the Arabs to resort to struggle in order to achieve their rights and reminds them that building up their strength is bindamental for the continuation of their struggle.

For 200th running of Epsom Derby today

Horses tuned, trainers nervous

LONDON, June 5 (R)-The runners bave been runed to the minute, all preparations have been made for the descent of up to half a million people on Epsom Downs and now there is a nerveracking count-down to Wednesday's 200th Epsom Derby for the owners and trainers involved. The jockeys have other things to think of in the interim-many of them will be riding other horses in other races up to an hour before the Derby off (1435 GMT). But owners and trainers have time to let hopes and fears grip them.

The prize is enormous--not only a record purse of £153,980. but the addition of millions of pounds to the winner's value for breeding purposes. And it all depends on a mile-and-a-haif gallop lasting less than 2-12 minutes over the horseshoe-shaped, turning, undulating Epsom course, where the classic was first run in 1780. All around Britain, the betting shops will open early tomorrow morning to accommodate the flood of once-a-year backers who always have a flutter on the Derby. It is not merely a race, but a national institution.

Run-of-the-mill victor?

It would be appropriate if the 200th Epsom Derby were won by an obviously great colt in the stamp of Sea Bird. Mill Reef. Nijinsky or Sir fvor. but pre-race indications are for a more run-of-the-mill victor. Racing experts' fancies cover a fairly wide spectrum, underlining the absence of any competitor who looks outstanding before the race. Two colts. Tap on Wood and Ireland's Dickens Hill, have already won Guineas classics over one mile. But it takes a good horse to win a Guineas race against the mile specialists and then triumph over the extra half mile of the Derby against the cream of middle-distance opposition.

Steve Cauthen, the great 19-year-old American jockey, rides Tap on Wood, on whom he won the Newmarket 2,000 Guineas at the first time of asking. It would be a tremendous achievement if Cauthen also won the Derby at his first attempt. Tap on Wood. chosen by Cauthen as his mount after long deliberation in preference to trainer Barry Hills' other two runners. Cracaval and Two of Diamonds, is one of the toughest classic-type horses in training. He has already run 16 times-a most unusually testing programme for a Derby aspirant.

Switchback course

Dickens Hill will be ridden by Tony Murray. He has twice been beaten by Tap on Wood, but could turn the tables if he negotiates Epsom's switchback course better than Cauthen's mount. Lack of stamina must be the question mark against both these colts. But Tap on Wood has a fair amount of staying blood in his pedigree.

Of the others, bargain colt Ela-Mana-Mou--he cost only £4,725 as a yearling-has lived up on the racecourse to his handsome looks. It will be a surprise if he does not go close for trainer Guy Hardwood, having his first runner in the Derby, and jockey Greville Starkey, who won last year on Shirley Heights, Milford, owned by Queen Elizabeth and ridden by Lester Piggott, acknowledged master of the tricky Derby course, is sure to attract a great deal of the popular betting money. He has done well on the track, but has not yet encountered as formidable opposition as some of his rivals.

Troy is the only horse to have beaten Ela-Mana-Mon so far, and that defeat in the Champagne Stakes last season was later avenged by Harwood's Star in the Royal Louge Stakes at Iscot in September. Powerful and obviousy of top calss, Troy should give champion jockey Willie Carson a good ride provided he stays the trip. Front-running Lyphard's Wish and Irish-trained

Noeling are tough and game but may need to d fully on these qualities if they are to show un at

Willie Shoemaker, the great American jor who so nearly stole last year's race on Hawa Sound, tries again on Cracaval. The colt has form and has won over the Derby trip.

The winner's cricle at Epsom Downs always draws a crowd.

MOSCOW, June 5 (R)--The Soviet Union reported today it had agreed to a Chinese call for talks on improving relations and proposed that delegations from the two countries meet in Moscow during July or August.

The official Tass News Agency said the Soviet suggestion was contained in a message handed to Chinese Charge d'Affaires Tian Zengpei in Moscow yesterday by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The message, officially described as an aide memoire, was the fourth to pass between the two quarrelling Communist powers since April 3, when Peking first announced it was ready for negotiations aimed at normalising ties with Moscow.

As reported by Tass and published in the Communist Party daily Prayda, the message laid down no conditions that might give China reason to decline to enter talks.

It said the discussions should be aimed at "the normalisation and improvement of relations between our countries on the basis of the principles of peaceful coexistence. including the principles of equality, mutual respect for sovereignly and territorial integrity, nuninterference in each other's internal affairs and the non-use of

It also proposed that the two countries, between which the ideological schism first became public almost 20 years ago, should agree to renounce any claims to special rights or hegemony in world affairs.

In recent years both Moscow and Peking have accused each other of attempting to establish negemony over different areas of the world, but particularly over Suutheast Asia and the Far East. If such an agreement were reached, the Soviet message said. it should be recorded in an appropriate ducument to be adopted by both sides. But the wording of the message did not suggest this was a pre-condition for the talks.

The Soviet message, which the official report said the Chinese diplomat had promised to pass on immediately to his government, said the talks should be held at the level of deputy foreign ministers.

The delivery of the message followed a statement issued last week by President and Communist Party chief Leonid Brezhner deelaring that Moscov was ready "to approach seriously and positively", the arranging of talks.

In a pre-recorded television address broadcast during a visit to Hungary, the Kremlin chief saidthe Soviet Union has often propused to China that they normalise relations "and put them on a course of good-neighbourliness."

But, Mr. Brezhnev added in a clear reflection of Russians' fears that China might be aiming to drive a wedge between the Soviet Union and Vietnam, "This cannot he at the expense of the interests of third countries."

If the Chinese side showed real good will, the Soviet Union would not lag behind, he said. Meanwhile, China is studying the Soviet proposal, an official Chinese spokesman said today. Asked for Pcking's reaction to the Soviet proposal that talks open at the level of deputy foreign minister, the spokesman said: "It is being studied." He was unable to say how long it would be before Peking replied.
